Thorne named to head bar association

SANTA CLARITA — Robert Thorne, a Santa Clarita resident and a partner with the leading international law firm of Loeb And Loeb, has been named president-elect of the Century City Bar Association, and will be installed as president of the group next year.

Thorne, who works in the entertainment division of Loeb And Loeb, was a secretary of the Century City Bar Association for several years. He was also the chair of the Entertainment Law Section of the CCBA for three years, from 1987 to 1990.

Thorne represents numerous prominent recording artists, actors, other entertainers and entertainment companies.

Loeb And Loeb, with a staff of almost 200 attorneys, has established a worldwide reputation, representing a broad spectrum of clients in the legal areas of real estate, litigation, corporate, tax, entertainment, insolvency and workout, labor, trusts and estates. The company maintains offices in Los Angeles, Century City, New York and Rome.
